

Establishing a Maths Exploratorium in the UK by Margaret Brown

Margaret Brown is an emeritus professor of mathematics education at King's College London. She taught in primary and secondary schools and has directed many research projects ranging from primary maths learning to adult numeracy teaching. She is now a member of the Royal Society Education Committee and is co-chair of the Directors of MATHSWORLDDuk.

Notes about the workshop:

The workshop will start with an introduction to the aims and plans of MATHSWORLDDuk, a new charity devoted to the establishment of a maths exploratorium in the UK. There will be a period for questions and discussion to gather information about relevant experiences and to feed ideas into the project. Finally there will be a group activity considering how experiences and presentations could be planned to engage all members of the public with areas of mathematics and its applications.
